

Energy Awareness

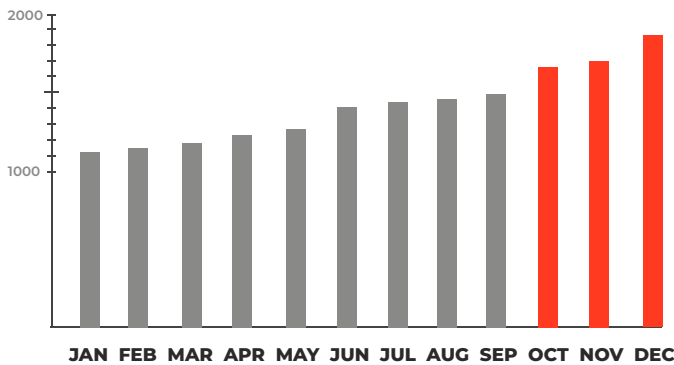

EMPLOYEE TRAINING

Energy Awareness training (EA) is a program that builds teamwork among co-workers in conserving energy and water, and reducing waste while reducing costs at work and at home. The training provides valuable information, both technical and behavioural, that will help individuals save energy and money.

Energy awareness is about understanding that:

- all day we're using energy in our building;
- some things we do use a lot more energy than others;
- simple changes in our habits can lead to big reductions in our building's energy consumption;
- reducing our building's energy consumption is important!

TIPS:

- Keep the thermostat at 21-22°C year round.
- Keep blinds or curtains drawn during a hot summer day; open them during the sunny part of a winter day.
- Make sure floor or wall vents are not blocked by furniture or other obstructions.
- Use daylight instead of electric light whenever possible.
- Replace the maximum used lights with solar LEDs
- Turn out lights when you leave your office for more than a few minutes.
- Avoid using space heaters.
- Join ridesharing programs or use public transportation.
- Take advantage of work-at-home policies.
- Use phone, Internet, and video-conferences rather than traveling to meetings.
- Turn off office machines overnight.
- Unplug inactive devices.
- Share printers and fax machines instead of purchasing separate ones for each person.
- Turn off water taps when water is not being used; report all leaks promptly.
- Set refrigerator temperature to 3°C and the freezer to -16°C.
